The Stowe Theatre Guild is a non-profit volunteer community theatre organization, pledged to offering the best local theatre experience in New England and offering diverse, quality productions in a premier facility. For over fifty years, Stowe Theatre’s mission has included drawing from and giving back to our community. The 2008 Summer Season confirms these goals, as we present the musicals ANNIE and BATBOY: THE MUSICAL in addition to Edward Albee’s Pulitzer Prize-winning drama A DELICATE BALANCE. Further testament of our commitment to community is the development of new works, as presented by Stowe Theatre Guild veteran Carole Vasta-Folley’s comedy PRONOUNCING GLENN.
